Biography:

Nicholas (Nick) Huang has a broad range of experience in international and domestic business and corporate transactions and litigation, real estate, homeowner's association and property management, trust and estate planning and administration, guardianships, immigration, personal injury, and criminal defense. He provides negotiation and litigation representation at the federal and state level.

Since admitted to the practice, Nick has supported clients in the preparation of estate planning which commonly includes a will and trust, appointment of health care representative, general durable power of attorney, and living will. He has extensive experience in estate and trust administration, guardianships, and related probate litigation.

In addition, Nick provides guidance on structuring and forming corporations, partnerships, limited liability companies, nonprofit organizations, and professional corporations. He also counsels and advises on corporate governance concerns, director and officer responsibilities, and general business planning.

Nick represents homeowners' associations, and their board members and property management companies. His duties include covenant enforcement, collection of assessments, related litigation, and he counsels HOA Boards and affiliated management companies on property and collection disputes. Further, he advises HOA's on corporate formalities and drafts amendments to declarations and covenants.
